

Dr. Nicolaus Martin Kröger, MD

Current Position

Medical Director Department of Stem Cell Transplantation,
University Hospital Hamburg-Eppendorf / Germany,
Professor of Medicine University Hamburg

Education and Training

1995 Exam of European Society of Medical Oncology (ESMO)
1996 Board certified Hematology and Medical Oncology
1988 MD Anderson Hospital, Texas U.S.A. (Hematology)
1988 MD University Hamburg / Germany

Employment and Experience

1997 Senior Consultant Bone Marrow Transplantation, University Hamburg
1993 – 1996 Resident Department of Hematology/Oncology, University Hospital
Hamburg

Professional Activities and Honors

2013 Organizing Committee of 2. NCI Workshop on Relapse after Stem Cell Transplantation (Bethesda, U.S.A.)
2011/+ 2013 Co-Chair: 1.+ 2. International Congress on Controversies in Stem Cell Transplantation and Cellular Therapy / Berlin
Since 2014 Chair of the Scientific Council of EBMT
Since 2012 - Chairman of the Chronic Malignancies Working Party of EBMT
2006 – 2011 Chairman of the subcommittee MDS of the Chronic Leukemia
Working Party of EBMT
Since 2008 - Board Member of the German Stem Cell Transplantation Group 1999 Scientific Secretary of the 25th Annual EBMT Meeting in Hamburg

2010 Award: Hamburger Cancer Society
2005 Award: Werner Otto Foundation for Medical Research

Author of more than 350 peer reviewed publications.

Main Domain of Research

Dr. Kröger's research interest is focused on clinical allogeneic stem cell transplantation, the detection and treatment of minimal residual disease by adoptive immunotherapy or novel drugs, the impact of NK-cell allo-reactivity, optimizing outcome with HLA-mismatched donor, and prevention and treatment of chronic graft-versus- host disease. He has special focus on development of conditioning regimen especially in multiple myeloma, MDS and myelofibrosis.